ISC About Dr. RMLAU

Dr. Rammanohar Lohia Avadh University, Ayodhya, was established by the Government of Uttar Pradesh on March 4, 1975, as an affiliating university. In 1993-94, the university was renamed in honor of Dr. Rammanohar Lohia, a noted freedom fighter and social thinker. The university became a residential-cum-affiliating institution in 1984 with the launch of four PG departments. In 1993-94, additional departments such as MBA, Biochemistry, Microbiology, and Environmental Sciences were introduced, gaining UGC recognition under the 12B scheme. In 2000-01, the Institute of Engineering & Technology was established, offering B.Tech and MCA programs. That same year, courses like MCJ, MSW, B.Lib., and M.Lib. were added. Further expansion in 2005-06 included programs like BBA, BCA, M.Ed., M.Sc. Biotechnology, and more. Since 2017-18, five new programs have started. Today, the university serves around 5 lakhs students through nine on-campus PG departments, an engineering institute, and over 600 affiliated colleges across seven districts.
